

The Changing Geography of Economic Opportunity in America

Incomes in Adulthood for White Children Born to Low-Income Parents (25th Percentile) in 1978 and 1992

Incomes in Adulthood for Black Children Born to Low-Income Parents (25th Percentile) in 1978 and 1992

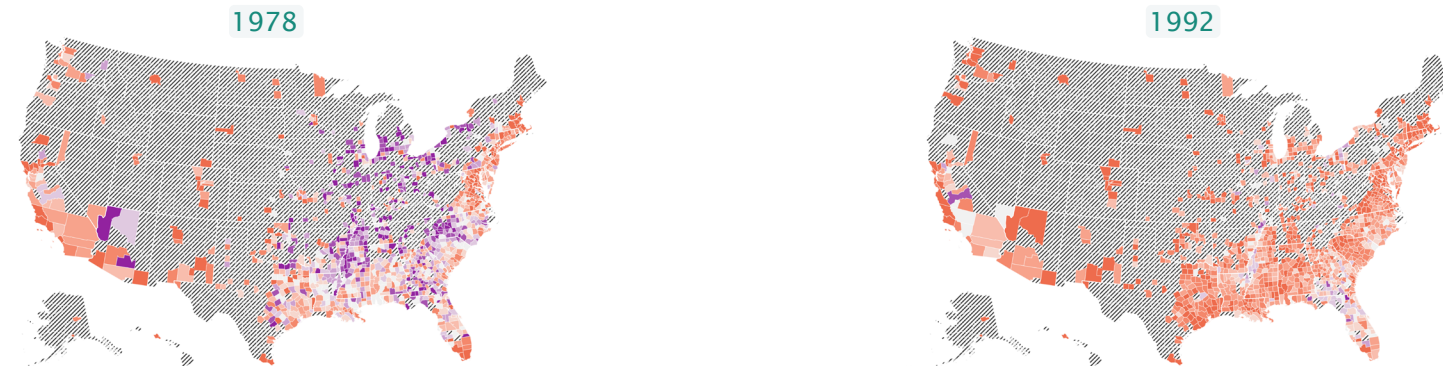

Figure Description

These maps show how opportunity has changed across places in America for Black and white individuals born in 1978 and 1992. The color scales for the Black vs. white maps are distinct to help visualize changes for each demographic group. The fact that two color scales are necessary underscores how wide remaining racial gaps are. Dollar values are measured in 2005 and 2019 for the 1978 and 1992 birth years, respectively, and are inflation adjusted to 2023 dollars.
