

Call for Papers

Economic Opportunity European Conference

Submission Deadline: March 1st, 2026 (11:59pm CET)

Location: Sciences Po in Paris, France

Date: 15-16 June 2026

We are pleased to invite submissions to the Economic Opportunity European Conference organized by the Economics Department at Sciences Po, Opportunity Insights at Harvard University and the Spanish Opportunity Lab. The conference will take place on June 15 and 16, 2026 at Sciences Po in Paris, France.

The aim of the conference is to bring together researchers working on the determinants and consequences of economic mobility and inequality, broadly defined, and on public policies surrounding these issues. We particularly encourage applications from researchers doing work in a European context, but also welcome applications studying other contexts.

Keynote speaker: Raj Chetty (Harvard University, Director of Opportunity Insights)

Organizers: Antoine Ferey (Sciences Po), Inés Guix Sauquet (Opportunity Insights & Spanish Opportunity Lab), Claire Montialoux (Sciences Po and CNRS), Javier Soria (Opportunity Insights, PSE & Spanish Opportunity Lab), Matthew Staiger (Opportunity Insights)

Submission: Authors are invited to submit their paper or extended abstracts by March 1, 2026 (11:59pm Central European Time at the latest). Submissions will be evaluated and selected by the organizers. Decisions will be notified on April 1, 2026. To submit, please complete this form.

Funding: There is no registration fee. Accommodation, lunches and a conference dinner will be provided for all speakers but we will likely be unable to cover travel expenses for all presenters. Junior researchers will have priority access to the limited travel budget.
